1.0 Source Control Drawing

- 1.1 When a supplier receives a drawing identified as "Source Control Drawing", the following requirements apply.
- 1.2 The supplier shall provide one (1) reproducible and one (1) reproduced copy of each assembly, installation and detail drawing, as well as specifications and standards. The drawings shall define the item and its components as necessary for the fabrication, assembly, and maintenance thereof, and shall include tolerances and actual or calculated weight information. The drawings shall conform to DOD-STD-100, whenever possible, for aircraft parts and support equipment.
- 1.3 This drawing and other technical data, as required, shall be provided to and approved by KAC prior to or concurrent with the delivery of the first production article.
- 1.4 The supplier shall not make substitute materials in the product or make any changes to his/her product that will affect interchangeability, either of the part as a whole, or of its components, or the performance of the unit, without prior approval of KAC.
- 1.5 The supplier shall submit all revisions to drawings, specifications, standards, and other documents to KAC prior to, or concurrent with, the delivery of the first article in which the change is incorporated. These changes require KAC approval. Such documents shall be kept up-to-date by the supplier until delivery of the last article or spare part to KAC.
- 1.6 The supplier shall ensure that all name or manufacturing address changes are reported to KAC immediately; product release authority may be withheld pending correction of this information on the drawing and related documents.
- 1.7 The supplier shall utilize approved subcontract suppliers that are noted in their approved supplier listing. Suppliers approved by KAC may also be used. If any supplier\(s\) are specifically named as part of any specification requirements, those suppliers must be used.
- 1.8 It is the supplier's responsibility to maintain correct configuration control of the assemblies and their detail parts.
